

Hugh Spitzer is a law professor at the University of Washington School of Law, where he teaches, among other things, Professional Responsibility, State Constitutional Law, Local Government Law, and Transnational Law. He has published widely on local government law and state constitutional law topics. He has also written about special ethics issues for government lawyers, including , recently, Model Rule 5.7 and Lawyers in Government Jobs—How Can They Ever Be “Non-Lawyers”? 30 Georgetown J. of Legal Ethics 45 (2017).

Mr. Spitzer received his B.A. from Yale in 1970, a J.D. from the UW Law School in 1974 and an LL.M. in 1982 from the Univ. of California, Berkeley.