SUBJECT: Ad Hoc Commission on the Discipline System: Appointment of Members

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

At its November 19, 2020, meeting, the Board approved a charter for the Ad Hoc Commission on the Discipline System, recommendations regarding the composition and size of the commission, and directed staff to solicit applications. This agenda item presents the recommendations of the Board Appointments Liaisons for the appointment of members of the Ad Hoc Commission on the Discipline System, including officers.

BACKGROUND

Over the last several years, the State Bar has implemented dozens of initiatives, policies, and procedures to improve the functioning of the attorney discipline system: to improve access to the system and promote its efficiency and effectiveness in support of the State Bar's public protection mandate. In addition to the State Bar's work to improve organizational capacity and effectiveness, the Board of Trustees has taken a proactive approach to identifying disproportionate discipline and has directed staff to develop, implement, and evaluate several reforms that address findings related to the disproportionate discipline imposed on Black, male attorneys.¹

¹ For a detailed listing of the many initiatives undertaken to improve the discipline system over the last 4–5 years, see the September 24, 2020, report to the Board of Trustees, Item 704, State Bar Discipline System: Implementation of Changes to Address Disparity; Past and Planned Changes to Improve Efficiency, Process, and Experience; and Recommendation for Ad Hoc Commission on the Discipline System.

Given these wide-ranging and ambitious efforts, the Board determined that the attorney discipline system could benefit from a comprehensive examination and review and established an Ad Hoc Commission on the Discipline System to that effect. At its November 19, 2020, meeting, the Board approved a charter that would guide the commission's work. Briefly stated, the commission is charged with evaluating the following:

- Procedural justice and the experiences and perceptions of the system by complaining witnesses and respondents;
- Workload and operational efficiency of case processing;
- Case prioritization and differentiated case-flow management; and
- The efficacy of the system for preventing future attorney misconduct.

The evaluation will consist of:

- Reviewing the full catalogue of reforms, the Office of Chief Trial Counsel has implemented and identifying one or more sets of processes, policies, and procedures to focus on;
- Evaluating whether these processes, policies, and procedures had their intended effect; and
- Based on this evaluation, recommending additional or revised reforms.

The complete charter is included as Attachment A.

The Board also directed staff to solicit applications for the commission. As a guideline, the Board identified key institutional entities that focus on public protection from which commission members should be sought:

- Council on Access and Fairness (2)
- California Medical Board (1)
- Department of Consumer Affairs (1)
- California Lawyers Association (1)
- Association of Discipline Defense Counsel (2)
- National Organization of Bar Counsel (1)
- California criminal justice system (prosecutor, defense counsel, judge) (3)
- State Bar Board of Trustees (2)
- Office of Chief Trial Counsel (2)
- State Bar Court (2)
- Affinity Bar Associations (2)

DISCUSSION

The application period for appointments began on December 9, 2020 and ended on January 5, 2021. Thirty-three applications were received following outreach activities that included an announcement in an all-licensee email, four social media posts, and links to application materials on the State Bar website homepage during the application period. Additional targeted outreach was conducted to affinity bar organizations throughout the state.

Stakeholder group composition objectives and the State Bar's diversity goals informed the Board Liaisons' recommendations for a 21 member commission as set forth below.² Acting on these appointment recommendations is within the subject matter purview of the Board Executive Committee.³ The recommendations also include the ability of the chair to: (1) designate subcommittees with subcommittee officers; (2) appoint additional advisory members to add knowledge and expertise strategically; and (3) to appoint members to fill current vacancies and members should vacancies arise.

Charter

The Ad Hoc Commission on the Discipline System will take inventory of the changes that have been proposed and implemented in the Office of Chief Trial Counsel since 2016 and evaluate their impact on public protection.
